

Boa Me Na Me MMoa Wo
Help me and let me help you.

Save the date

Umoja VI Conference
November 5-6, 2010
Orange Coast College
Costa Mesa, CA

Students Teaching and Teachers Learning

Come share a learning space with Umoja students who are putting on a student driven professional development conference for all educators.

Imagine your classroom before there are any students in it. It is silent, cold, empty. When we walk through the door, life flows through the room, conversations begin, knowledge is exchanged and our presence raises the temperature of the space in every way. One role of an educator is to understand and engage all of who we are, our total being: our ancestors, our culture, our communities, our daily experiences and our dreams. Umoja students across the state are preparing now to raise the temperature at Umoja VI.

Umoja VI will be unlike any professional development conference you have ever attended. It is being crafted as a deep, holistic and engaged learning experience where we share practices and pedagogy that help us succeed, as well as, create new vision and new learning strategies.

As students of African descent, we vow to help each other be bigger than ourselves, by partnering with faculty, staff, and administrators to articulate learning that matters, transforms and works. Come join us at the Sixth Annual Umoja Community conference, a unique professional development opportunity created by students for faculty, staff, administrators and fellow students.

If you are interested in continuing to get information about the Umoja VI conference, please follow the link to a survey that will place you on our Umoja VI conference mailing list <http://www.surveymonkey.com/s/BCKNQJT>.

Funtunfunafu denkyem funafu, won afuru
bom nso worididi a na wo ko
Need for unity, particularly where there is one destiny.

